The Centre, a centre under the Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences, currently teaches thirteen languages, mainly to undergraduates at elementary, intermediate and advanced levels.

Applicants for the position should have at least a Master’s degree in the Teaching of Chinese as a Foreign Language, Applied Linguistics or any related field with at least three years of experience in teaching Chinese as a foreign language and in curriculum development at the tertiary level. Skills/knowledge/experience in the application of IT to language teaching and/or research in Chinese as a foreign language would be an advantage. The appointee’s duties will include a wide range of teaching and developmental tasks for lectures as well as course administration. Appointment will be made on a three-year contract, renewable subject to mutual agreement.

Remuneration will be commensurate with qualifications and experience. Relocation, leave, medical and housing benefits are provided in accordance with the applicable NUS regulations. Applicants may contact the Centre if they have any queries.

Applications are to be made in English. Those interested in the position should submit a cover letter, a CV, a brief teaching philosophy statement, copies of educational certificates, samples of self-developed materials, and the names and contact information (postal and e-mail addresses) of three academic referees. Applicants should preferably provide a video recording of their classroom teaching. The soft copies of application and all supporting documents are to be sent via email to:

Chinese Language Lecturer Search Committee Chair
Centre for Language Studies
Faculty of Arts & Social Sciences
National University of Singapore
Tel: 6516-6346
Email: clssec@nus.edu.sg

The closing date for application is 31 July 2020.

Only shortlisted candidates will be notified.