

Dr. Karen McCloskey

Karen McCloskey is the newest member of the French team at NUS, having recently moved to Singapore. She holds a PhD from the University of Toronto with a specialization in Eighteenth-Century French literature and a B.A. (Hons) and a M.A. in French language and literature from the University of Manitoba. She has been teaching language and literature in various Canadian universities since 1994 and is especially interested in the use of technology in second language acquisition.