Title
Global Economic Outlook: How Secure is the Global Recovery?

Date
4 June 2010, Friday

Time
4.30 pm - 5.45 pm

Speaker
Mr Adrian Cooper
Chief Economist and Managing Director
Oxford Economics Ltd

Venue
Lim Tay Boh Seminar Room (AS2 03-12)
National University of Singapore
1 Arts Link, Singapore 117570

Chair
Assoc Prof Albert Hu Guangzhou
Department of Economics, NUS

Synopsis:
This forum seeks to assess global economic prospects, based on projections from the Oxford Macro Global Model. While the recovery may be surprisingly strong in the short term, issues such as its sustainability in developed economies, and implications for the pace of growth in Asia, need to be carefully examined. The prospects for inflation and interest rates will also be discussed, and risks and alternative scenarios evaluated.

About the speaker
Adrian Cooper is responsible for coordinating and managing Oxford Economics’ global economic analysis, forecasting and consultancy activities, and overseeing its team of economists based in Oxford, London and Philadelphia. He has led Oxford Economics’ work on a wide array of consultancy projects, ranging from policy advice to government departments in Europe, Africa and Asia, to detailed analysis of the economic impact of particular industries and investment proposals. Adrian also heads Oxford Economics’ detailed forecasting work on the UK economy.
He spent the first 7 years of his career with HM Treasury, England. During this time, he worked on the analysis of tax and other economic policy changes as part of the preparations for the UK Budget. He was also the coordinator of the government's macroeconomic forecast for two years. He was educated at the University of Bristol, England, where he gained a first class degree in Economics; and at the London School of Economics and Political Science, England, where he achieved a distinction in the MSc in Economics.

Seating is on a first-come-first-served basis and admission is free. Registration closes on 2 June, 2010 at 3 pm.
