The Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences offers over 20 areas of study in the Humanities, Social Sciences, and Asian Studies, including:

- Anthropology
- Applied Geographic Information Systems
- Chinese Studies
- Communications and New Media
- Comparative Asian Studies
- Cultural Studies in Asia
- Economics
- English Language
- English Literature
- Geography
- History
- Japanese Studies
- Malay Studies
- Philosophy
- Political Science
- Psychology
- Social Work
- Sociology
- South Asian Studies
- Southeast Asian Studies
- Theatre Studies

For more information on FASS Graduate Programmes:

Graduate Studies Division
Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences
National University of Singapore
The Shaw Foundation Building, AST, Level 6, 5 Arts Link
Singapore 117570

"The courses you will do at the South Asian Studies Programme will excite you. The modules will inform you of the dynamism, paradoxes, mysteries, uniqueness and challenges within the region. I was so inspired by the Programme that I returned to do my Masters with them."

Priscilla Ann Vincent
MA in South Asian Studies

"There are many teaching and research opportunities that hone our skills as graduate students, as well as support for professionalisation training such as reading groups, conferences, summer schools, and fieldwork. Professors treat us not just as passive students, but as a colleague-in-training. This Department maximises the potential of budding scholars like me, and I am very privileged to receive such topnotch doctoral training."

Raymund Vitorio
PhD in English Language

The Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences at the National University of Singapore is a leading global university centred in Asia, offering outstanding teachers from top universities around the world, a comprehensive university library, state-of-the-art IT resources, and easy access to the region for research and fieldwork. The Faculty is home to an active and diverse research and graduate student community.